Subject: After MSN debacle...DOJ still doesn't get it?

Sirs,

After MSN blocking and killing other browsers very recently, you SHOULD have gotten a clue about what is going on. Please get some competent technical help in the DOJ who understands the implications of Microsoft smothering the entire technology field.

It's not what they bring to the table at low cost, but what we will never see developed. A case of what could have been many times over with new technology.
